I. HISTORY

By God's grace, Evangelical Alliance for Preacher Training & Commission (EAPTC), our mother organisation, has initiated planting of hundreds of indigenous local churches in Africa and worldwide through the proven strategies of the native church leadership training and daughter church trans-planting movement since its birth in 1996. After experiencing some frustrated results in church planting and cross-cultural mission while working with a traditional Bible School, EAPTC changed to the discipleship-based School of Mission by adopting the lesson plans from the DCI Foundation in the U.K. in 2001. This new strategy has helped us challenge our churches to plant the daughter churches by training their own key church leaders. Apparently, this "School of Mission" programme became a backbone of our church planting ministry since then. And, it has been our wish over the years to share with other churches and denominations what God has blessed us with. To this cause, EAPTC School of Mission has now opened its doors to introduce this effective strategy to you. The classes convene in such flexible time settings for the convenience of those who may be already in full-time ministry or in employment. Our lessons have been well tested in the churches of Africa, India and the Hispanic world, adapted of course to the local culture. We believe that EAPTCSM is a master plan for equipping and raising up the leaders of Church today.

II. INTERNATIONAL CAMPUSES

One can choose to take the EAPTCSM course either at the King's Kids in Africa (KKA) Nairobi head office or on campuses of over 30 other branch schools (mostly church-based schools) in Kenya, Uganda, Tanzania, D.R. Congo, Sudan, Malawi, Zambia and Namibia (As of 2007). EAPTCSM graduates may be given an authorization to run his/her own ministerial training centre in cooperation with the national head office.

III. ACCREDITATION & AFFILIATION

EAPTC School of Mission is a correspondent member of Accrediting Council for Theological Education in Africa (ACTEA) and also affiliated with the DCI School of Mission, U.K. We offer Diploma of Biblical Studies for those who may complete the course.

IV. FEES

V. ACADEMIC VALUATION

This will be understood by a College or Higher Education or an University who may or may not allow academic credits to be considered towards a course of further study offered by them. Please note that no guarantee whatsoever should be given to any student that any University or College will automatically accept the values awarded by this Diploma of Biblical Studies or any other from an outside institution. However, many colleges will certainly take these studies into account, especially with a credible transcript to accompany them.

"The DCI Foundation in the U.K. confirms that if the full Course were complete on their premises and under their supervision the actual classroom and study time would be as follows:

85 lessons at 1.5 classroom or study hours each = 127.5 hours.

85 written assignments at 3 hours each = 255 hours.

85 practical assignments at 2 hours each = 170 hours.

Total classroom and assignment clock hours = 552 hours.

The 552 total hours equals 34 credit hours.

Therefore, the academic valuation of this Diploma of Biblical Studies is said to be 34 semester credits."
